CELEBRATING 50 YEARS OF THE VL118

The chair VL118 was first introduced in 1964 and initially a steel framed chair with a plywood seat and back. We looked into the archives of old drawings of design chairs. The organic lines and superb comfort struck us, and therefore we decided to redesign VL118 in order to bring it into today's market.

The chair is still based on a steel frame that comes in three variants – silky mat chrome, shiny chrome or black powder coat. The seat and back is true to the original in every shape and is available in walnut or oak veneer, upholstered with high quality Danish textiles or the exclusive semi aniline leather. All of the options are of course possible to combine to suit every taste.

VL135 “COSY” - REDISCOVER THE CLASSICS

The VL135 “Cosy” is a classic and comfortable lounge chair that was originally introduced in 1960, around the time of the company’s 25th anniversary. It went by the name of “Cosy”, which still stands as an acknowledgement of Vermund Larsen’s design.

The updated version is much like the original, but with minor improvements such as a wider seat, which have enhanced the chair’s overall design and proportions. This gives the piece the quality of a modern lounge chair. As something new, we are also pleased to introduce the VL136 - a matching and sleekly designed foot stool.

The frame is available in chrome or black, and the chair is available with elegant oak armrests. The chair is upholstered in one or two nuances and is available in several attractive styles, such as Go Couture, Dunes leather or the exclusive Grand Velour.

Once again, it is time to rediscover the classic chairs from the 60s

Vermund Larsen was an interior designer and manufacturer. He founded Vermund Larsen A/S in 1935 and was one of the pioneers in ergonomic office chairs. Vermund Larsen's unique and ground breaking furniture design have influenced the way office chairs are made today. Vermund Larsen was also at the forefront in developing ergonomic seats and backs as well as his ergonomic designs created a worldwide precedent.

In 1961, Vermund Larsen developed Europe's first office chair with automatic height adjustment in the form of a gas spring system, a system that has been used ever since. The first design of the VL66 was launched in 1962. It originally had a wooden seat and back, and the padded version with Hallingdal upholstery was introduced in 1966. Now it is time to rediscover his classic design, and the VL66 office chair will once again see the light of day.

Throughout the 1960s, the VL66 was used at many workplaces. It is a durable office chair with leather reinforcement in the most exposed places. VL66 still has the classic design from 1966, with a chrome frame and Hallingdal upholstery. VL66 is also introduced as a stool, with chrome frame and Hallingdal upholstery.
